Carolinian Creed

We oppose intolerance by promoting integrity within our campus community. Our common values are formed upon the foundation of our creed, which emphasizes openness and civility.

"The creed reflects a concern for all members of the university community as individuals, providing each with membership in our community and a genuine sense of inclusion." - Dr. Dennis Pruitt, Vice President of Student Affairs, from About Campus: Enriching the Student Learning Experience, 1996

The Carolinian Creed Around Campus

In 1990, The Carolinian Creed was established as the university's value statement. The Creed approached these issues in a unique way; instead of limiting student's rights, it empowered students to set an example for all to follow.

To infuse the Creed into campus culture, there are a number of events that take place throughout the year. Additional information about these events and other ways to promote the creed are below.

Carolinian Creed

As a Carolinian ...

I will practice personal and academic integrity;

I will respect the dignity of all persons;

I will respect the rights and property of others;

I will discourage bigotry, while striving to learn from differences in people, ideas and opinions;

I will demonstrate concern for others, their feelings, and their need for the conditions which support their work and development.
