Reporting and Response Process

If you experienced or witnessed an incident of bias, we encourage you to use our reporting process verbally, through various forms of media and/or other actions. An incident of bias is defined as (but not limited to) any act or omission (including but not limited to inequitable practices that impact one's ability to perform, etc.), by the alleged offender, based on the victim's identity).

Bias incident reports are routed to the Bias Assessment and Response Team (BART). BART will receive an automatic confirmation of receipt from the online reporting tool via email. BART will contact the student reporter, if not anonymous.

Investigations and referrals for resolution of reported incidents may take place with campus or law enforcement agencies, if appropriate. BART will intervene accordingly once one or more incidents are reported.

Incidents that are an emergency, should be reported immediately to Department of Public Safety.

Reports submitted anonymously will not prevent Rensselaer from beginning the investigation process.

BART will follow up with impacted parties, monitor the status of the response, and provide support to the campus community (BART serves to protect the campus community). BART will assist in providing campus police with information regarding the incident.

For any questions or concerns regarding our process, please email BART@rpi.edu
