Hi Bethany,
I was wondering when you would be available to discuss sending out a campus wide email? I am wanting to send out a anonymous mental health survey that has received 60+ responses.
Sincerely,
Dominick Dotson

Hi Dominick,

I am not advised to send out surveys from individual classes, groups, or students. The sheer amount of emails I would end up sending out is overwhelming, and students have historically complained about it. The IT department is better suited to take your survey and send it out to a random population of students so you can get a random sample for your research.

If you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to ask!

How would I go about doing that?

I recommend reaching out to the help desk and asking for contact information on who would be the best person to talk for sending a survey out to a random population. Another good person to talk to would be Dean Greer, as she has historically focused on mental health, and she might know who in the IT department to contact.
