  - b. protect other University interests, such as preventing undue clutter; limiting confusion resulting from the proliferation of postings; preventing damage to building finishes; promoting an attractive, orderly, safe, and environmentally sensitive campus; coordinating multiple uses of limited space including preserving the opportunity for multiple perspectives to be shared; and other legitimate interests.

2. Not all University space is available for posting of materials on campus. Space made available for posting of materials is limited to particular groups or for particular uses, as described herein, which shall be governed by reasonable, viewpoint-neutral restrictions, taking into consideration the legitimate interests of the University.

3. Materials that are not constitutionally protected materials, such as those that are obscene, defamatory, convey a serious expression of intent to commit an act of unlawful violence against a particular individual or particular group of individuals, incite or produce imminent lawless action and that is likely to incite or produce such action, materially disrupt, obstruct, or interfere with University activities, violate any law or illegally infringe on the rights of any other individual, or materials that damage university or private property or that disclose confidential information without appropriate authorization may not be posted or distributed on campus.

The University through its organizations may place signs, labels, and post materials in its discretion where it enhances the operations of the University and in connection with official University business, activities, and events, which may be subject to internal rules or guidelines. a. Permanent exterior building signage attached to a structure, which are standardized and fall under the direction of Facilities Management.

As such, SEC may limit the number of postings permitted at one time, taking into consideration the aggregate number of postings requested by all posters. Such regulation shall be viewpoint neutral and consistent with this policy.
