

Matt Werenczak

Syracuse NAACP Rep: 'we need to start hiring our teachers from historically black colleges.' Mind you two white tutors were in the room. I'll let you take your own inference from that. Because that sort of stuff matters.

Like · Comment · July 20 at 1:12pm

Well, it is the association for the Advancement of colored people, so it's kinda what they're supposed to do, advance their people.

July 20 at 1:16pm · Like

Matt Werenczak Just making sure we're okay with racism. It's not enough I'm busting my ass tutoring in the worst school in the city, I suppose I oughta be black or stay in my own side of town.

July 20 at 1:18pm · Like

1.) I thought you were a law student

2.) Did you call the dude out on it? July 20 at 1:19pm · Like

Matt Werenczak I didn't hear it, the other tutor did. But it kind of offends me that I'm basically volunteering this summer at Danforth, getting up at 630, with no AC, to help tutor kids and that's not enough. Sorry.

July 20 at 1:22pm · Like

That does suck, but it's not that out of the ordinary. Its the same mindset on how a democratic president will want to put democrats on the supreme court, and in the south its called the Good Ol' Boy mentality. People like advancing other people like them, and it always hurts when your on the other side of it.

July 20 at 1:42pm · Like

Write a comment...